A New Departure In Passenger Boats.

The vessel that is exciting wide interest among the Long Island Sound steamboatmen is the new large side-wheeler for the New York and Providence line. This steamer is built of wood, and is 305 feet long over all, 42 feet beam, and 16 feet in depth.

But the great attraction, the novel feature about the new craft, is the engine, which is an experiment here. It is the first of its type that ever was built in this country, being designated as an oscillating, compound surface, condensing, direct acting sidewheel engine. This type of engine has always been used by the sidewheel steamers in England, and it has many advantages over the beam engine that is so common to American steamboats. The oscillating engine occupies less room, and the weight of the machinery is carried much lower down than that of the beam engine, which adds immensely to the vessel's stability. The Ronches are furnishing the machinery, and there are to be eight tubular boilers capable of sustaining eighty pounds pressure. The engines consist of one set of oscillating cylinders, the low pressure one being seventy-eight inches in diameter, and the high pressure forty-two inches, with ten feet six inches stroke of piston. The stroke also excites much comment owing to its length.

As can be seen by professional men, the feature of the stroke of the engine is strictly American, being so much longer than the English stroke, which would be about six feet. The long stroke has always been much favored by American marine engineers, who claim for it a higher degree of economy than the short stroke engine can produce. This departure will be watched with much interest by many experts in engine economy, some of whom assert that so long a stroke for this type of engine is incompatible with a practical efficiency. The steamer will have feathering paddle wheels, and is expected to be fast with a limited consumption of coal. She will begin running this fall. Her cost is placed at $250,000.

An Off Day For Trout.

There are days upon the Bruffy and kindred streams all the world over when twenty or thirty fish will rise at your fly the day through for one you hook, and a half of those that are hooked will fall back into the water or dart off into freedom before the fatal landing-net is under them. Of all the mysteries that the fly fisherman in his art encounters, this is, perhaps, the greatest. Why, with one consent, the whole finny tribe of a river should devote their energies to leaping round and round the insects upon which they feed nothing but the wildest surmises have been ventured in explanation of. "They are rising short," is the only remark that the experienced angler makes to his companion. The trio, deeply impressed, perhaps, with the bewildering humbug of some book on angling, lays the blame on his selection of flies. He changes his "black hackle" for a "blue dun," and his blue dun again for an orange grouse. Later in the day he falls back, perhaps, upon a "March brown" in despair. The fish at the same time begin feeding seriously, and the much-tortured man is prepared to swear from that day forward to the efficacy of the latter lure above all others. —Macmillan's Magazine.

The "Old Man" is dead. He was a dog. He lived, while he did live, in Louisville. He often rode with his master on horseback, and would mount before or behind, as bidden, and seemed to understand how to manage sheep as well as a man. On one occasion he was attempting to cross some lambs over a ditch, and not being able to make them take the water, seized them by the neck and led them across one at a time. This valuable canine was shot about a month ago by some reckless herder, the ball taking effect in his back. The poor animal suffered intensely for two weeks, and then died. —Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Bartholdi statue, with its pedestal, will be 220 feet high, surpassing the far famed Colossus of Rhodes, who stood only about 140 feet without his stockings.

A German Village Wedding.

The village church where the wedding took place is on the top of a little craggy hill. The church is very old, built of gray stone, with a square tower and an odd-shaped belfry. The stony path led through the graveyard to the church door. The chime of bells rang out with a decorous joy. "Let all things be done decently and in order," they seemed to ring; "not too fast; we are staid people and take time for all things." The interior of the church was cold and severe looking, the walls white-washed, but the galleries painted pink and blue. The long, narrow windows seemed set in stone arches, so thick was the wall. The pulpit above the altar was as high up as the galleries, so that the minister preaches far above the heads of his flock. On one side of the altar hung a portrait of Luther; on the other of Melancthon.

The wedding took place at midday. First came a troop of little girls, each carrying in her hand tiny bunches of flowers. The little things, with their braided hair (no hats) and dresses almost touching the floor, looked as quaint and demure as the little women in the old-fashioned picture-books. Next came the bride and one bridesmaid, then three bridesmaids walking together, lastly the groom and groomsmen. The bride and bridesmaids entered a pew to the left, the groom and party one to the right. All knelt in prayer. Then the bride went by herself to the altar, laid on one side a white silk handkerchief, a sprig of rosemary and a lemon! I wondered to myself if the lemon was emblematic of the sourness of married life. She then returned to the pew. I noticed that there was on the other side of the altar another white silk handkerchief, a sprig of rosemary, and a new Bible. The choir sang quite a long hymn. The minister went up in the pulpit and preached a sermon of about twenty minutes. The choir sang another hymn. A little boy placed a long, low stool before the altar. The minister descended, and the bride joined the groom at the altar, the bridesmaids and groomsmen remaining in the pews.

At the close of the ceremony the minister presented the groom with the new Bible. The choir sang still another hymn. Then the bride returned to her pew and the groom to his and said their prayers, after which the groom and groomsmen left the church and were not joined by the bride until they were quite out in the churchyard. It seems the silk handkerchief, lemon, and rosemary on one side of the altar were for the minister. On the other the gift was for the organist.

A Waiting Maid's Revenge.

A woman of great wealth tells me that she is compelled to give up a dwelling which has newly cost about $200,000, on account of the successful vengeance of a serving maid. The mistress is old, and as nervous and notional as only persons of fortune can afford to be. The servant one of those young, pretty, velvety French creatures who are now fashionable in New York luxurious households, especially as attendants upon rich women. She was discharged for some misdoing, but was to remain until the end of her month. It was in this interval that she invented a retaliation, which has proved the most ingenious and effective that I ever heard of, excepting those involving the perpetrator in danger of punishment. The house had a commanding overlook of Central Park, and the girl knew that these fields were dotted over with places where suicides had been committed. No week passes without at least one voluntary departure from the park to eternity. The lakes are handy for drowning, the trees for hanging, and the secluded bowers for the uninterrupted use of pistol or knife. It is a question with me whether the self-murderers all go there for the purpose deliberately. It is not likely that the leisure of the unfortunate, when spent aside from the bustle of city business, becomes so lonesome that death seems preferable? The French maid went into no such abstruse consideration of the subject. She was aware that her mistress was abnormally affected by anything wierd or tragic. So she told her of the numerous suicides, pointed out from the window many spots where this poor devil had hanged himself, where that one had died by drowning, and where the other had blown his brains away. She added, with a shrug and shudder, that she fancied she could see, 'o nights, the ghosts of the self-slain haunting the places of their crimes. The old [illegible] haunted. She could not look at the park, which had previously been a solace to her eyes, without descrying the points which the girl had invested with grewsome interest. She fondly hoped that the wretch had lied, but on sending a man to a newspaper office to make an examination of the files she found that the tragedies in the main had been correctly located. After months of mental torture, she has gone to Newport for the summer, and will never return to her house alongside Central Park.

An unsophisticated countryman, who reached town on an early morning train, took a saunter through a street where a duly iceman had just dotted the sidewalks with "early deliveries." After viewing the "deliveries" with great curiosity the stranger stopped a citizen and said: "Had powerful storm here, I see." "Why, not that I know of," replied the citizen. "Ye didn't?" exclaimed the countryman, "then where in thunder did them hailstones come from?"—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

"For ten years past," said the new boarder, "my habits have been regular as clock work. I rose on the stroke of 6; half an hour later I sat down to breakfast; at 7 I was at work; dined at 12; ate supper at 6, and was in bed at 9:30; ate only hearty food, and hadn't a sick day in all that time." "Dear me," said the Deacon, in sympathetic tones, "and what were you in for?" And in the awful silence that followed you could hear the hush grate its teeth.—Burdette in Brooklyn Eagle.

A WORD TO THE WISE!

ONLY A FEW YEARS AGO THE people of British Columbia were paying Double Prices for nearly all their Dry Goods.

WHITE HOUSE

Broke up the Chain of High Prices, and old time dealers saw the trade passing them and THE WHITE HOUSE taking front rank. Partial reforms having been tried without avail, "Panic" stricken desperate efforts are now being made to dispose of the antiquated stores of unsalable goods. Flaming placards announcing immolation sales at ruinous sacrifices—(ninety-nine cents instead of a dollar) disfigure half the Dry Goods Stores on Government street.

The Cheap John plan is largely dealt in and catch-penny lines such as—19¾ cents, 49 cents, 74½ cents are conspicuous around these sepulchres of legitimate trade.

In a country where a silver dime is the smallest coin such exhibits are ridiculous enough to make a door-knob grin.

Commercial excresences, called cheap sales, the outgrowth of trade depression, present strange incongruities, none appear greater than the spectacle of a well-to-do lady who can well afford to pay a fair price for whatever she may require, engaged in a scramble to procure the same for a few cents less.

At these Bi-annual "Sells" (the vernacular for Sales), Sale-o-maniacs lacking astuteness often find themselves in the condition of their purchase—"Sold."

THE WHITE HOUSE

Has no allies exploring the sweepings of the London warehouses for trash suitable to import specially for Bi-annual Cheap Sales; but should it become necessary in the course of business to have a Clearance it will be such as will make the short bit men meek as the biblical Prodigal Son when feeding the Shoats.

WITH ITS YEARS OF EXPERIENCE, ITS PERFECTED ARRANGEMENTS WITH [illegible] ITS ESTABLISHED AGENTS IN THE GREAT JOBBING MART, ITS IMMENSE STOCK AND HEAVY SALES, THE WHITE HOUSE CAN DO ALL IT PROMISES, VIZ:

Sell the Best Goods at the Lowest Prices in the City of Victoria.

Thanking a generous and appreciative public for the very liberal patronage bestowed on us in the past, and guaranteeing satisfaction in the future, we invite all who desire

New, Stylish and Cheap Dry Goods

THE GREAT SHOW.

The agricultural show which closed last evening may, on the whole, be characterized as a success, though the many drawbacks with which the directors had to contend prevented it from being all that its promoters wished it to be. Had the rain held off, and some of the delightful weather, which we claim as our due at this season, been granted, the attendance would probably have been double what it was. Nevertheless, the people showed their interest in the affair by turning out in large numbers to inspect the country's exhibits in spite of the inclement weather. On Friday, the opening day, about 800 visitors entered the grounds, with 300 more in the evening; and yesterday it is calculated that about 1,400 persons visited the exhibition during the afternoon and evening. Considering the rain, this is not a bad showing. The general opinion is that the show was the best that has yet been held. The accommodations for exhibits offered by the new grounds and buildings are superior to anything in the past, and on future occasions will certainly be even better appreciated. Comfortable quarters are provided for live stock, while the course near by offers opportunity for the inevitable horse races, without which many would consider a show incomplete. The building, which was raised after much tribulation, is all that could be wished. Though not an elaborate or costly structure, it presents a creditable appearance, and is commodious, convenient and sufficiently strong, the floors being firm, the staircases securely built, and the galleries thoroughly supported. The spaciousness of the building is thoroughly appreciatad after the confined quarters the public have hitherto been obliged to put up with. The lower floor offers space for the exhibition of the larger and heavier articles of manufacture. Furniture, wagons and carriages, pianos and organs, stones, marbles, oils and soap were the principal exhibits on the main floor, and although the display was a very good one, we hope that next year will see a greater number of our industries and manufactures represented. In the galleries, lighter and more delicate articles were exhibited, and this part of the building seemed to be the favorite promenade. The building is eminently adapted, in every respect, for the purposes of such an exhibition, and when the time comes round for the next show, two years' improvement and advancement in every branch of agriculture and manufacture should enable us to give an exhibition that could not be surpassed on the coast. The purpose of these exhibitions is to encourage the development of the country, and certainly this year's exhibits show great strides in every direction.

(Per Northern Pacific Railway.)

QUEBEC, Sept. 18.—Mr. Julien Couture, of St. Lambert, county of Levis, has caught three bears in a trap since Friday last. On one of his visits to the trap in question, Mr. Couture was well nigh paying the penalty of his daring, as two large bears were waiting in the vicinity keeping guard over a third, who was caught in the trap. The bewildered bear catcher was compelled to resort to strategy to get safe out of the way.

A violent wind storm visited the city last night, during which houses were unroofed, chimneys blown down and trees uprooted in different parts of the city and its surroundings.

MONTREAL, Sept. 18.—Mr. Alfred Perry authorized the statement that Mrs. Sheriff, confined as a lunatic at Longue Pointe, was yesterday examined and pronounced sane by the inspectors. Her immediate release was made conditional on Mr. Perry's application therefor and engagement to provide for her when set free. His circumstances do not justify him in undertaking to support all the sane women who may be imprisoned under Dr. Howard's remarkable regime, and probably Mrs. Sheriff must remain in confinement till her friends or some humane person will undertake to care for her.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—The house and all its contents of Thos. Snoebottom, on the 14th concession of London, was destroyed by fire on Tuesday, the 16th, about 10 o'clock in the forenoon. About $50 in cash was burned, the family escaped barely with their lives. The fire crught from the stove pipe.

NORTH GOWER, Sept. 17.—The Rev. Anthony J. O'Loughlin, Episcopal incumbent of North Gower, the eminent pulpit and platform orator, died at the parsonage, North Gower, this morning at three o'clock after a prolonged attack of gastric [illegible] service will be held at 10 o'clock Friday morning. The sermon will be preached by Rev. J. J. Bogart of Ottawa.

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 18.—The Belleville Woollen Mills have been placed in the hands of the sheriff to realize $3,500 owing the Bank of Montreal. Yesterday a Toronto wholesale firm through the agent here closed the doors of a Mr. Thos. Muir, hat and fur store.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—A terrible accident occurred this morning in the township of Dorchester, about a mile and a half east of the Dorchester station, to a farmer named Saunders. It appears he was attending to a threshing machine, and after putting on the belt instead of stepping around the cylinder to get on to the feedboard, he unfortunately stepped into the cylinder, and was mangled to death before the machine could be stopped, being literally torn to atoms. He leaves a wife and family of small children.

An enthusiastic meeting of the Conservative Club was held last night to arrange a demonstration in honor of Sir John's fortieth anniversary of his entry into politics. It is not yet decided what form it will take, but it will occur in November.

PORT ARTHUR, Sept. 16.—Angus Campbell, town tax collector, and an old resident, died last evening.

TORONTO, Sept. 18.—Fire companies from many of the towns and villages in the province are now in the city attending the firemen's tournament. The Lindsay and Dunnville companies are here, and in their absence both towns have been visited by fire. At Lindsey the Government drill shed, occupied by R. Sylvester as an agricultural store-room, was destroyed, and a loss of about $8000 occasioned. At Dunnville $5000 worth of lumber, owned by G. P. Moore, of Welland, was destroyed.

A young girl named Morrow, last night while engaged in lifting water from the aqueduct at the water works, fell in and was drowned. She was about 17 years of age.

B. C. AGRICULTURAL EXHIBITION

The Last Day's Proceedings.

NEW OFFICERS ELECTED.

The Great Baby Contest.

Yesterday dawned dismally; but towards noon the sky cleared and the sun shone brilliantly. The appearance of the god of day caused the directors, who had begun to fear a heavy pecuniary loss in consequence of the wet weather, to put on a more cheerful aspect and as the day wore on a multitude of people presented themselves at the gates with tickets. The number of visitors before six o'clock was roughly estimated at 1,400—a majority of whom were women and children. The was held at 12 o'clock, the president, Mr. J. D. Bryant, in the chair. The following officers were elected to serve during the ensuing year:

President—John Kirkland, Esq.

Vice-Presidents—Hon. Wm. Smithe and A. C. Wells, Esq.

Secretary—W. D. Ferris, Esq.

Treasurer—T. R. Pearson, Esq.

Directors—Messrs. A. Innis, N. Shakespeare, M. P., Mr. Brighouse, D. W. Higgins, W. Ladner, James Burns, Geo. Black, W. Dalby, H. Webb and S. Sandover.

It was moved by Mr. Kirkland, seconded by W. H. Ladner, that sec. 1 of art 3 be expunged and the following substituted therefor: "The names of all members shall be registered in a book kept by the secretary for that purpose, and the annual fee of membership shall be $3, which shall also entitle members to compete for any prizes of the association without any charge as entrance fees." Carried.

Mr. Higgins moved, seconded by Mr. Wells, that the board of directors be authorized to take the necessary steps to have the association incorporated so as to enable them to hold property, and that the board and their successors in office be the custodians of the property. Carried.

Mr. Smithe moved, seconded by Mr. Townsend that the thanks of the meeting be accorded the retiring officers. Carried.

The meeting then adjourned.

THE PAVILION

was crowded with visitors throughout the afternoon. The Swiftsure band reached the hall shortly after 2 o'clock and played the programme of music previously announced as that band only can play. The interest manifested in the various exhibits was very great and the remarks passed were highly complimentary

THE BABY SHOW.

Took place at four o'clock. Six pretty youngsters, from a few months to a year old, were shown. All were very neatly attired and looked, as they sat on their mothers' knees, the personification of dignified expectancy. The judge was Mr. D. W. Higgins, who, after a careful examination, awarded the prize to Miss Lucy Howard, aged five months, child of Mr. and Mrs. Reese Howard of Seattle. The little beauty was enthusiastically kissed by many ladies who pressed forward after the decision was given. The parents of the child are Americans, and the child was born in Seattle. "Why," said Mr. J. F., a well known citizen, "You have to import even your babies from the other side," a sally which caused much merriment.

EXHIBITS.

Among the articles that could not be enumerated yesterday was a clever piece of handicraft exhibited by Mrs. R. H. Smith, a large wooden arm chair, made by a Hydah Indian of Skidegate, Queen Charlotte Island, with the assistance only of a jack-knife. It is very neatly cut and polished, with carved back and arms, and must have taken a good deal of time and patience to finish.

The young lady who took the prize for bread is Miss Emma Jenkins.

T. Tugwell's exhibits of seeds of all kinds were the finest display of the kind ever shown in the province. Mr. Tugwell is deserving of the highest praise for his efforts in promoting that which will tend to further the best interest of agriculture.

W. Whittaker, taxedemist, shows a number of heads of animals, one of which, a panther's, being specially good, and the balance are all fine specimens.

Messrs. Greyell and Wells, of Chilliwhack, show some excellent samples of pears and peaches, which looked as fine as foreign growth.

W. J. Tippin, of Fort street, has an assortment of candies of his manufacture in a large glass case, which obtained the first prize.

Geo. Cook, plasterer, has on exhibition a very tasty piece of ornamental [illegible] of paris, work and valves and nickle plate, shown by the Albion Iron Works, will stand the closest examination.

Mr. S. L. Kelly's tinware, copper work and lanterns are made in a very artistic manner.

Muirhead & Mann's window frame and inside blinds with marble paneling, continued to be an object of general admiration.

Mr. Rudge's sculpter work, and Mr. Sehl's furniture divided the attention of lovers of fine work.

Mr. Conlin's horseshoes are among the most serviceable and beautiful articles on exhibition.

The corner dressed by Mr. S. Piercey for Commerce House, shows great taste and skill as well as a thorough knowledge of the harmony of colors.

THE RACES.

In the race for $500, DeSchutz, Blair Athol, Rival and Larry O'Brien contested. The first heat was won by DeSchutz; Blair Athol and Rival ran a dead heat for second place. The second heat and the race was won by DeSchutz, who distanced all the others.

IN THE EVENING

the grounds and hall were brilliantly illuminated. Some 400 people promenaded the hall or listened with pleasure to the music of the Artillery Band, led by Prof. Haynes. The exhibition was closed at 10 o'clock in the evening, and before midnight many of the articles had been removed. A notice elsewhere will be found of interest to those who took prizes or who have claims against the Association.

FROM THE NORTH.

Indians on the Verge of an Outbreak.

The steamer Princess Louise arrived from the north at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. She left Fort Simpson last Saturday morning, calling at Skeena and all the principal ports on the way.

THE MINES.

The news from Lorne creek is most encouraging as far as the miners are concerned, but the Indians are still in a disturbed state and a serious outbreak was expected at any moment.

Before the steamer left Skeena Mrs. Hankins arrived from the forks of that river and reported that the Indians had threatened the white people there.

Reports from Metlakahtla are anything but bright. The Indians there prevented Capt. Sherbourne from surveying a piece of land on which a mission church was to have been built for Bishop Ridley, and say if further steps are taken in that direction they will use violence.

The trip was a very pleasant one until the Gulf of Georgia was reached, when a strong head wind was encountered. The Louise brought down 8,265 cases of salmon and a few passengers.

From Alaska.

The schooners Otter, Capt. W. Littlejohn, Alexander, Capt. C. F. Colsan, and San Diego, Capt. Kithcart, arrived this morning from the far north with a first-class catch of furs. The Otter had secured 500 seal and 105 sea otter skins; the Alexander about 1,300 seals and 27 sea otters, and the San Diego about 800 seals.

There was no mishaps on board any of the vessels and the general health has been good, considering that they have been away about ten months.

The value of a sea otter skin in the market at present is something like $150, and the average price of seal about $10, so that the total catch of the three schooners can be placed at $45,800.

Personal.

Rev. A. J. Wood, Mrs. P. Goepel and Mrs. W. Goepel were passengers by the Amelia.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Gilmore, Mr. W. Charles, Capt. Lewis and W. B. Adair were passengers on the Yosemite.

Drs. Davis, Smith, Walkem, and Collector Peck were among the arrivals by the R. P. Rithet yesterday.

Mr. George Williscroft and family were passengers from the north by the Princess Louise.

Mr. W. Power, of Moodyville, is in town.

THE SHIPPING.—The Hudson Bay wharf presented a busy appearance last night while the Yosemite and Rithet were discharging freight, the former having brought a large quantity of pressed hay from the mainland. The whole length of the wharves were lined with steamers from the north, New Westminster, the east coast, Sound and San Juan. The lights from these and the various vessels and small craft made the harbor a very pretty sight.

THE BAPTIST CHURCH.—Rev. Walter Barss, the newly arrived pastor of the Baptist church, will preach morning and evening in the Pandora street hall, where services will be held until the congregation have secured an edifice of their own. Mr. Barss has an earnest, clear and pleasing delivery, and will no doubt soon gather a large congregation around him.

METHODIST BAZAAR.—The ladies of the Methodist church intend holding a bazaar about the first week in December. They also wish to dispose of a first-class piano, having no further use for it. The piano can be seen at the parsonage. *1m

THE OCTOROON.

Clever Performance by the Amateurs of the Swiftsure.

The amateur dramatic company of H. M. S. Swiftsure at the Philharmonic last evening, under the patronage of Admiral Lyons and officers, gave the Southern drama of "The Octoroon" to a full house. The plot, which is cast among the plantations of Louisiana, is a familiar one to most theatre goers, and is full of thrilling incidents from beginning to finish, and the amateur company presented it in a way that demonstrated great talent and very close study of the different characters of the piece, which the audience showed their appreciation of by rounds of applause at frequent intervals. Promptly at eight o'clock the band of the Swiftsure played one of their charming selections, and the curtain was rung up for the opening act. In this all the principal characters were introduced, and W. Ivey as "Salem Scudder," and H. Prowse as "Pete" the old negro soon made themselves favorites with the audience, the former taking the New England Yankee to perfection, while the latter was perfectly happy in his part, showing considerable powers as a negro comedian, and frequently "brought down the house." "Zoe," the octoroon, was well represented by W. A. Reed, as was also "Dora Sunnyside" by T. Ellis, both of whose get-ups were first-rate. E. Blower as "Miss Peyton" also took a difficult part with credit. E. W. Bushell as "George Peyton," and H. W. Eason as "Jacob McClosky," were equal to each of their respective parts The minor parts were well sustained. T. Bosanquet, T. McIntosh, J. Steedan and A. Hurley being worthy of mention. All were well up in their lines, the play moved smoothly, and suitable scenery all combined to make the piece the decided success that it was.

The entertainment concluded with a very laughable farce, "Should this meet the eye," in which each of the principal actors in the drama took a creditable part, H. Prowse being especially happy in his song, "We are never, never where we ought to be."

The Swiftsure Band, under Mr. Bird's leadership, added greatly to the pleasure of the entertainment. The proceeds will be considerable, and will be devoted to local charities, for which the company deserve many thanks.

New Westminster.

Mr. J. C. Hughes shot a fine bear at Burnaby Lake on Tuesday, and another on Thursday, and Mr. Clarence DeBeck bagged two a few days previously. They are very plentiful in that region.

At Vienna's fish and game store on Front street may be seen as rare a curiosity as Barnum's white elephant. It is a white deer, a buck, weighing 160 pounds. This animal is a uniform creamy white color, and is quite fat. It was shot on the Coquitlam river, and had with it at the time a companion of the same color.

Mr. W. S. Gore, surveyor-general, examined the False Creek road with Mr. Ross, and we understand he refused to accept it on the ground that it had not been completed according to specifications. It is not yet known whether the contractors will complete it or allow the government to do so.

We understand that Judge McCreight will come up on Monday and remain permanently in this city. We shall be very glad if this turns out to be a settlement of the judge question.

The Globe says that M. Gregoire, for eight years a Roman Catholic priest in British Columbia, has been converted to Protestantism, and is now laboring in Shefford county, Quebec.

We are glad to learn that the work of repairing the Port Moody road will be proceeded with at once. Mr. Ross received a telegram from the provincial secretary yesterday instructing him to go on with the work in accordance with his report. The government has acted very promptly in this matter; but it is too much to expect that it will get any credit from the people of Port Moody.

Marine.

Steamer Barnard Castle sailed from Nanaimo for Departure Bay on the 26th inst.

The Alexander left yesterday for Cape Flattery with the Wm. H. McNeil and Princess Royal. The former is bound for Melbourne and the latter for London.

The steamship Queen of the Pacific left San Francisco for this port yesterday.

The Alexander towed the Jas. G. Baïr around from Esquimalt yesterday. The Baïr will commence discharging her cargo on Monday.

His Success,

Financially and socially, are largely due to his excellent health. If his system were clogged and teverish, no doubt he would fail, as so many others do. But why not enjoy good health when one can please the palate at the same time? Syrup of Figs is not only pleasant to the taste, it also cleanses the system thoroughly, yet painlessly; it is harmless in its nature, and strengthens the organs on which it acts so that regular habits may be formed and the sufferer permanently restored to health and happiness. Sample bottles free and large bottles for sale by Langley & Co. 6

"THE QUEEN."—This is the name of a new restaurant and chop house to be opened this morning by Mr. J. Brink, late of Seattle, on Yates street, in the Ominega building. The place has been thoroughly overhauled, and the private rooms, of which there are five, are so arranged that they can be thrown into one when necessary.

HE WAS TIRED.—Just as the curtain fell on the second act at the Philarmonic last night, a man with a face like a paper-knife, who had been imbibing too much of the "cup that cheers," fell off his chair in a clumsy manner to the floor, flattening out his chapeau and looking ridiculous generally, much to the amusement of the audience, who cheered him lustily. He gathered himself together, with the assistance of two friends, and departed for a "smile."

MIRACULOUS ESCAPE.—While a Portuguese sailor this morning was furling a sail at the topmast on the schooner Otter, just arrived from Behring sea, he fell a distance of eighty feet, and eight feet from the deck caught a part of the rigging, dropping to the deck unhurt. Had he not caught the rope death would have been instantaneous.

GRAPES.—Several generous bunches of grapes were left at this office yesterday, for which we have to thank Mr. Sheriff Harris. The grapes were grown in the sheriff's garden, and the full, ripe clusters are a credit to our climate.

THANKS.—We are indebted to Mr. Wilson, of the Amelia, for a fine brace of grouse which he kindly presented to us yesterday.

Nanaimo.

The coal prospectors at Quatsino have lost the drillhead they had in use, in the hole they had bored. Mr. Preston Moore, of the company, came down on the Otter and will take back a new drill. The old one will have to remain where it is and a new hole bored.

A sailor belonging to the ship John A. Briggs named Stoub, went on a spree last Sunday, and in the evening, when returning to the ship, fell down the stairs leading from the high to the lower wharves of the Vancouver Coal Company. He received internal injuries, and Dr. Cluness, the marine physician, attended him. The injured man died at 7 o'clock last evening. His name was Charles Stram, aged 46 years, a native of Finland, Russia, and a sailmaker by trade.

GRAND BALL TUESDAY NIGHT.—The managers of the B. C. Agricultural Hall have arranged for a grand ball to take place at the new hall on Tuesday evening. The Artillery Band has been engaged, and the electric light will be employed as the illuminator, for the first time in this city on such an occasion.

CHANGE.—The Amelia will now make three trips to Nanaimo under the mail contract. It is said that the new steamer Tenser will be placed on the New Westminster route.

EXCLUSIVE DISPATCHES TO THE COLONIST.

LAST NIGHT'S DISPATCHES.

IRELAND.

CORK, Sept. 27.—At a meeting of the corporation of the city of Cork to-day, among other matters, expressing approval of the Mayor's action in sustaining the visit of the Duke of Edinburgh, gave rise to an exciting debate. It was evident that the sentiment of the corporation was opposed to the motion, when it was withdrawn without being put to a vote.

DUBLIN, Sept. 27.—The corporation of Limerick yesterday rejected, by a vote of 18 to 2, a proposition to provide for the payment of the special police tax, as reduced by the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland. The Mayor announced, amidst great enthusiasm, that Patrick Egan, President of the Irish National League in America, had cabled his approval of their action.

FRANCE.

PARIS, Sept. 27.—Le Paris urges the powers to inform England that she has gone too far in prompting the Egyptian government to break an international law in regard to finances. England, the same paper says, cannot be allowed to dispose of Egypt as she likes. The National expresses the belief that in consequence of the protest of the powers England has already resolved to modify the financial measures which she is expected to enforce in Egypt.

MARSEILLES, Sept. 27.—Reports from the provinces of the south of France announce three fresh cases and three deaths from cholera yesterday.

ENGLAND.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—The authorities have ordered increased precautions to be taken at Dover to prevent the land of dynamiters who are endeavoring to reach London from the continent. English detectives are now accompanying the steamers across the channel, narrowly scrutinizing each passenger and subjecting all baggage to the closest examination.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—Mr. Gladstone spoke in Carlisle to-day. Among other things of a like tenor, he said in the present crisis the lords ought to study the best means to provide that the house of lords shall not fall. This end can be secured only by their acting with moderation and prudence.

EGYPT.

CAIRO, Sept. 26.—It is reported that the Egyptian government will simply make a formal acknowledgment of the receipt of the protests against the suspension of the sinking fund, which were presented yesterday by the representatives of Germany, Austria, France and Russia.

GERMANY.

BERLIN, Sept. 27.—The German government has forbidden the new corvettes Qing Yuen and Chen Yuen, built for China, to leave Kiel under the German flag.

DELAYED DISPATCHES.

EASTERN STATES.

ERIE, (Pa.), Sept. 26.—Special reports sent from here to-day, saying that 20 persons were killed by a falling grand stand, are totally false. Late this afternoon a guy, supporting the framework of a balloon being sent up from the grounds of the Erie County Fair, fell, crushing the skull of Samuel C. Perrin, a prominent farmer living in the limits of this city, and killing him instantly. It also struck James Wadsworth, a farmer of Girard, Pennsylvania, injuring him seriously, but not fatally. W. P. Edwards, secretary of the Agricultural Society, had his breath knocked out and his face distigured. The accident was caused by the cutting of one of the guy ropes by some unknown person. All subsequent attractions of the fair were declared off.

DENVER, Sept. 26.—Miss C. J. Welton, a wealthy young lady of New York City, perished in a snow storm last Tuesday night, while descending Long's Peak. Miss Welton had been spending a season at Colorado Springs, visiting Pike's Peak and other points of interest. A few weeks ago she went to Estes Park, stopping at the hotel. Monday evening she walked over to the house of a guide named Lamb, living at the foot of the peak, and engaged a son of Mr. Lamb, nineteen years of age, to act as a guide in ascending the peak the next morning. At 6 o'clock Tuesday morning she left the house and safely ascended the peak, but encountered a fierce snow storm on the return, during which the lady became completely chilled. Young Lamb assisted her in the descent as best he could until about 9 o'clock at night, when her strength entirely failed; and he carried her for half a mile, when, finding his own strength failing, he told her that the only chance of saving either of their lives was for him to leave her and go to his father's house, seven miles distant, for assistance. He left her at 10 o'clock and returned with assistance at 4 o'clock Wednesday morning, finding her frozen to death. The remains were taken to Longmont, and will be sent to New York. Miss Welton was highly refined, a great lover of nature and very self-reliant. A heavy snow storm prevails in the mountains to-night.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—The captain of the steamer Lord of the Isles, speaking of the rescue of 306 persons, including the officers and crew, from the wreck of the French transport Avyron, says she went ashore on the rocks off Cape Guardafui on the 21st of August. A German ship the next day took off 350 invalids. The transport was in a sinking condition when she spoke us on the 23rd of August. We took off all on board, and the vessel was then set on fire.

Isaac Newton, chief of the Croton Water Department, suicided by cutting his throat. It is said that he had been drinking heavily of late. The coroner's jury decided that Newton took his life while insane. Financial trouble caused the act. The estate left by the elder Newton, who was Commodore Vanderbilt's associate in the North River Navigation enterprise, has already diminished lately by the failure of debtors. When the chief engineer of the aqueduct was 15 years old, he was John Eriesson's favorite pupil, and planned the new aqueduct. He managed the engine of the Monitor in her fight with the Merrimac, having to be brought to the deck three times because of fainting in the close atmosphere of the engineer's room. He was ignorant as to which way the battle was going until the victory was won. When assistant engineer of a frigate in the war, he was publicly thanked by the secretary of the navy for his heroic conduct during a fire on the ship. When the crew were inclined to abandon her, he threatened to brain any man who tried to pass him on the gangway, where he had stationed himself. Newton feared that the depletion of his father's estate would leave his mother and sister in want.

CALIFORNIA.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 26.—A dispatch received from Cheyenne on the night of the 23rd inst., says that Gillie Leigh, a member of the British parliament, was found dead at the base of a precipitous cliff in the Big Horn mountains. A private dispatch received here gives the information that deceased was heir to the title and estates of Lord Leigh, of Stone Leigh Abbey, Warwickshire, one of the first ancestral estates in England. His brother, Dudley Leigh, who has been staying in this city for the last six months, now becomes heir to the title and money.

The Examiner to-morrow will print further particulars regarding the disappearance of George Wolff, book-keeper of E. G. Lyon & Co., and also treasurer of the French Mutual Benefit Society. Investigation shows that Wolff is an embezzler to the amount of $3,000 from the funds of the French Aid Society. It is also learned that the girl who refused to marry Wolff, has a dowry of $5,000, with which, if she had accepted his offer of marriage, Wolff purposed to make good his peculations. Seeing no chance to avoid detection and arrest after the girl's refusal, it is surmised caused his disappearance.

Judge Field to-day heard arguments in the Chinese habaes corpus cases on the following points: First—Whether a Chinese person who was here at the time of the signing of the treaty in November, 1880, and who left China before the Act of 1882, which provides that departing Chinese laborers shall be given return certificates, shall be allowed to land. Second—Whether remanded Chinese can be admitted to bail. Third—As to the citizenship of a Chinese boy born in this country, who left the United States during infancy.

On the first point, Judge Field stated that the amended Act of 1884 cut off the parole evidence entirely; hence he thought it the intention of Congress to shut out persons who left here before the passage of the Act of 1882. On the second point he decided that remanded Chinese could not be released on bail. The third question went over until to-morrow. These are merely verbal opinions expressed in the course of the argument. The written decision will be filed on Monday on the question of the parole evidence. Judges Sawyer, Sabin and Hoffman have previously decided adversely on Field's holdings.

The Education of Girls.

That girl has the best education, who is the most thoroughly qualified to take care of herself in a hand to hand fight with the world. Who has a basis of good judgment, practical knowledge, and common sense, in which to start in her self-sustaining career. Who is armed with the able weapon of a trade or profession with which she is familiar, and whose conduct is governed by exacting principles of natural integrity. Such a girl possesses a fortune in her own right which no fluctuations of business circles can depreciate, and who will never become a drag upon opulent and unwilling relatives. With health and strength and a fair start in the race for life she will reach every mile-stone of success. Nor wear out, or grow discouraged by the way; and not infrequently she will outrun her vaunting brother, and even stop to lend him a helping hand.

The properly-balanced, well-educated girl is aware that she can do one thing well and she bends all her energies toward its accomplishment. She concentrates all her forces, instead of scattering them, and has something to show for it. She is the best acountant or the cleverest writer, or the most successful saleswoman, or the hardest worker in the sciences—music, physic, law—whatever her talent destines her for. She studies with an aim, and understands what she learns. Her mind is a storehouse, not a sieve, and she endeavors to absorb quality rather than quantity, and comprehend to her own enlightenment what she studies. The wretched system of forced culture in which a girl learns a little French and Latin, a smattering of mathematics, a glance at polite literature, and a great deal of poor piano playing, has been abandoned in favor of a more sensible curriculum commensurate with her value as a co-worker with her brothers.

Sensible German parents have always brought up their daughters to be producers as well as consumers in the domestic economy. It is only the American parent who made the kitchen unattractive to his daughter, and gave her no possibility of employing her talent, except in the few lady-like departments sanctioned by conservative custom.

The time is coming, nay, has already come, when a sign reading "Smith & Daughters," will merely indicate that all Mr. Smith's boys were girls, and he had educated them as he would have done if they had been boys. And the Smith girls instead of dawdling around the paternal mansion until some young men could be found for husbands, have wisely gone into business with their father, and have never found time to be discontented with themselves.

When Edison, genius and inventor as he is, had given two weeks of his valuable time to going up and down on the New York Elevated Railroad, trying to discover what made its noise and a cure for it, he gave up the job. Then a little woman took it. She rode on the cars three days, was denied a place to stand on the rear platform, laughed at for her curiosity, and politely snubbed by conductors and passengers. But she discovered what caused the noise, invented a remedy, which was patented, and she was paid a sum of $10,000 and a royalty forever! Her name is Mrs. May Walton, and she lives in New York City. This is what she says of her education:

My father had no sons and believed in educating his daughters. He spared no pains or expense to this end. My father's brother once said to him, "Why do you waste so much money on your girls?" To which my father replied, "My boys all turned out to be girls, and I am going to give them as good an education that they may turn out to be as good as boys."

As good as boys is here used in a general sense; as good as some boys would be a very poor recommendation. Any girl who understands her own capabilities will do her work as well as it is possible to be done. No boy can do better than that. Work is without sex. Certain departments of labor are claimed exclusively by boys and men because they have a legendary right to them. No competition has entered the lists against them. If a woman can make a good horse shoe she can open a forge and make shoes. No one has the right to say she shall not. There are men who are milliners, dressmakers, and who sell dress goods, and they do these things so well no one disputes their right to them.

The girl who has educated herself to fill some niche in the mercantile world may marry and never carry her knowledge any further than her own nursery. What then? She is well fitted to teach her own sons and daughters the rudiments of commercial knowledge, to counsel and advise with her husband, and if left a widow to take care of her own estate. There is no vaster heritage of ignorance and uselessness than the array of thread-and-needle accomplishments which for generations has been considered the correct dower for a lady-like young person. Consider your girls as responsible fellow-citizens, and educate them accordingly.

Sandal-Wood Trees.

In the physical world South America is full of wealth, and nature has bestowed upon it a matchless grandeur in its rivers and its mountains. Prof. Fisher shows us that inter-tropical America (North and South) surpasses all the world in the number and variety of its plants, while Agassiz shows us how greatly the wonderful variety of its fishes surpasses that of North America. Of course, much of the country is now malarious and unhealthy, yet vast regions of elevated and most beautiful sections are most salubrious and healthy, and clothed with an incredible wealth of ceaseless production. Endless varieties of the most luscious fruit and beautiful flowers, with birds of gorgeous plumage and gigantic butterflies, delight the eye on every hand, far up on elevations where neither the winter's cold nor excessive heat is ever known, and all nature teems with health, beauty and abundance. Even the low levels along the great rivers teem with endless wealth and invite a commerce that has scarcely begun, save in a few articles. East of the Andes, and intersected by many great rivers, is probably the greatest and most valuable forest on the globe, and almost untouched by the ax. Mr. Thompson, who held the position of Consul at Brazil for some time, stated in a lecture, on his return, that in traving on the Amazon he saw sandalwood trees that here would each be worth $5,000, yet of whose value the natives seemed unconscious or indifferent.

But three students graduated at the Massachusetts Agricultural College this year.

Tricks in Expert Shooting.

"Exhibition shooting ain't what it pretends to be," exclaimed a veteran crack shot. "When a man attends a tournament shoot with a shell-loader on the ground who is known to be 'square' it is far different work than that indulged in by a man who goes before an audience with his own gun, loaded by himself, and the targets or traps his own private property."

"You don't mean to say that these 'crack shots' who give exhibitions of their skill are crooked, and don't do 'square work?'" interrogated the scribe.

"Well, some of 'em are 'square' enough, perhaps, but the majority are not, and I know what I'm talking about. Frank Frayne, who used to shoot an apple off the head of a lady on the stage, until he killed his sweetheart at Cincinnati a few years ago, was one of the square men. He was a good shot; and some of the men who practice deception are good shots, too, but they prefer to be on the safe side."

"Explain yourself?"

"Well, take Buffalo Bill, for instance. Bill can handle a gun in good shape, but in his Wild West shows he rides a horse at full gallop and shoots glass balls thrown up by men along the track. He pretends to do it with a rifle ball, but he don't because he is afraid of missing too many of them. The second day the show was here he gave an exhibition of his skill with a rifle, but the balls had been extracted from his cartridges and they were filled with shot."

"What other cases do you know of!"

"Well, Bogardus has two small boys who stand up and shoot at a target. When they strike the bull's-eye a bell rings. The bell manages to ring nearly every time, and the people think those boys are great shots. The secret of their skill lies in the fact that the target is so arranged that if the ball strikes a space anywhere within six inches of the center it causes the bell to ring. That makes it very ordinary shooting. Capt. Bogardus himself is a square shooter, as is his eldest son, Eugene, but they sometimes resort to tricks, and the boy is by far the finest shot of the two. Are there any other tricks? Well, I should think so. It is like every other business; there are 'tricks of the trade,' but it is best not to give them all away."

What Shall We Eat.

Specific directions with regard to diet ought never to be given unless the hereditary or acquired bodily tendencies of the advised individual are known. The rule of life, even in the autumnal months, for a man afflicted with costiveness can never be the same as that for a man with a tendency in the opposite direction. Some may abstain almost entirely from fruit and retain good health, but there are many to whom compliance with the order, "abstain from fruit," would be the signing of their death warrant. The man who lives by any set of rigid rules of dietary formulated for him by others; who abjures animal food because vegetarians seek to prove that it is not right for man to eat it; who abandons fruit and vegetables through fear of diarrhea; who forces himself to a monotonous and unvarying dietary, or who takes his food by weight, is a fool for his pains, and will soon reap his reward in sickness. On the other hand, it is impossible to write four letters large enough to express the foolishness of the men or women who will continue to eat what they know is hurtful to them, either because they like it, because others recommend it, or because they perceive that others take it with impunity. The man who exercises largely every day, who lives out of doors, who works at a hearty manual craft under healthy conditions, will, if in good health, probably find himself able to digest and assimilate pretty well any kind of food not taken in excess, while the man who follows a sedentary calling must, even if in good health, take far more care of himself.

Midnight in Marseilles' Cemetery.

Late at night I drove with my courier outside the city to the cemetery, St. Pierre, to see the burial of three cholera patients whom I had observed in the Pharo Hospital in the afternoon. The route led through the poor quarter, and at every corner bonfires were blazing to purify the air. The whole population was sitting out on the steps of tenements or on church porches enjoying the fires and the currents of air created by them. The country road beyond the barriers brought us to the gates of the cemetery, when the polite concierge, who was politer still for 5f., led us walking down a spacious road, lighted here and there by lanterns lying on the ground, to a place just back from where we had been and where the night's burials were to take place. Soon the first of the hearses appeared; then followed the others. After a brief burial service, intoned by a pale young priest, who looked badly scared, three boxes were hurriedly lowered into a trench eight feet deep by twenty feet long, and a goodly quantity of lime shoveled on top. It was a ghastly trench, and there was plenty of room for more coffins. It was a weird and saddening sight. There stood the blanch-faced priest, intent on his holy calling, surrounded by a gang of swart, bare-chested, brigandish-looking laborers, who bore the somber coffins. For a background there stood the tall white houses. The dead still wore their tawdry trinkets, and the whole was lighted up as in a picture by Rembrandt by the fitful glare of three lanterns. Those gaping trenches were big enough to hold their thousands. A concierge showed me a burial permit. Across the face of the document was written "Cholera—urgent," and there was a requisition for some disinfectant. I went back to the central part of the city, and it was gay enough. Bands were playing and cafe lamps were gleaming. People in throngs were walking in the streets laughing merrily, and many heads were poked out of the windows of the houses. It was hard for me to believe that I had just visited the hospitals, and had witnessed death, or that the terrible scenes at the cemetery were realities and not mere phantasms of my imagination.—Correspondence New York Times.

"I don't know what to do with that boy of mine. He is getting worse every day. He is perfectly worthless." "Oh, don't trouble. That boy will be all right. Some day a great actress will be sure to come along and take him for a husband."

"Johnny, I observed with pain that you have been perusing 'Wild Dick, the Dead Shot of the Rockies.' You don't know how it grieves me to find you reading such vile literature." "But how do you know it's a bad book, papa?" "Well—ah—ar——"—Texas Siftings.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

PRIVATE BILLS.

ALL APPLICATIONS FOR PRIVATE BILLS, properly the subject of legislation by the Legislative Assembly of British Columbia, within the purview of the "British North American Act, 1867," whether for the erection of a Bridge, the making of a Railroad, Turnpike Road, or Telegraph Line; the construction or improvement of a Harbour, Canal, Lock, Dam or Slide, or other like work; the granting of a right of Ferry; the incorporation of any particular trade or calling, or of any Joint Stock Company; or otherwise for granting to any individual or individuals any exclusive or peculiar rights or privileges whatever, or for doing any matter or thing which in its operation would affect the rights or property of other parties, or relate to any particular class of the community; or for making any amendment of a like nature to any former Act—shall require a Notice, clearly and distinctly specifying the nature and object of the application to be published as follows:—

A notice inserted in the BRITISH COLUMBIA GAZETTE and in one newspaper published in the District affected, or if there be no newspaper published therein, then in a newspaper in the next nearest District in which a newspaper is published.

Such notice shall be continued in each case for a period of at least six weeks, during the interval of time between the close of the next preceding Session and the consideration of the Petition.

Before any petition, praying for leave to bring in a Private Bill for the erection of a Toll Bridge is presented to the House, the person or persons intending to petition for such a Bill shall, upon giving the notice prescribed by the preceding rule, also at the same time and in the same manner, give notice of the rates which they intend to ask, the extent of the privilege, the height of the arches, the interval between the abutments or piers for the passage of rafts and vessels, and mentioning also whether they intend to erect a drawbridge or not, and the dimensions of the same.

The Cotsford-Payne Boat Race.

SIR:—HAVING TAKEN GREAT INTEREST IN aquatic sports for a number of years, permit me explain what many spectators of the boat race on Saturday last considered a bad start.

Heretofore the starting stakes in James Bay have been placed in a line parallel with the general run of Dallas road, the course having been around Deadman's Island and back.

Before the Cotsford-Payne race it was agreed that the line of the stakes in James Bay and the line of the stakes to be rounded above Deadman's Island should be laid out parallel with the second Esquimalt bridge. The bearing of the bridge is S.W. and N. E. nearly. The stakes above the bridge were laid very nearly S.W. and N.E; but a serious error occurred in placing the James Bay starting stakes. The latter were laid N.W. and S.E, or at right angles to the second Esquimalt bridge.

This mistake made a considerable difference in the distances to be rowed by the two men. If the line of the stakes in James Bay had been set parallel to the shore line, that is, E. and W., Payne's boat would have been placed at the start 69½ feet nearer Dallas road. If the line had been laid off S.W. and N.E., parallel to the Esquimalt bridge and the line of the upper stakes, Payne's boat at the start would have been 127 ft nearer Dallas road; Cotsford's boat in each instance being in the position it actually started from I have assumed the distance between the stakes to have been 90 feet. All the bearings are magnetic.
